Read-to-Rover

Continues April 12 at the Fort Lee Community Library

For youths who struggle with reading, the comfort and companionship of therapy dogs helps turn something that's stressful into an activity that is fun and soothing. This unique program is open to children of all ages. The therapy dogs are provided by Caring Canines of Richmond. The program will continue on the third Tuesday of every month. The library is located on the 2nd floor of the Army Logistics University. For more information , call (804) 765-8095.
